

July 4 Message

Of all the holidays we observe in the United States, July 4 is most significant because it was the beginning. On that date in 1776, 56 brave patriots signed the Declaration of Independence, pledging “our Lives, our Fortunes, and our sacred Honor” to the new Independent United States of America.

Today, our nation is under attack as never before, from enemies foreign and domestic. As we’ve seen in the past 18 months:

- Our elections are no longer fair and secure
- Our government is willing to violate our constitutional and civil rights again and again under the guise of “public safety”
- Our medical and scientific community is more likely to make pronouncements based on politics rather than actual science
- Our justice system is skewed in favor of the elites and against conservatives and the powerless
- Our media and Big Tech are rampantly silencing opposing voices, dealing in censorship and propoganda rather than a free and truthful exchange of ideas.
- Our public schools and colleges have become bastions of left-wing thought control, where lessons like Critical Race Theory are the norm, and conservatives are shouted down or stopped from speaking altogether
- Our children and the elderly, the most vulnerable among us, have often been most hurt by the Covid “pandemic”

As our forefathers before us, and as we stated in our Petition of Grievances:

15/ Whereas when any form of government becomes destructive to our republic, it is the right of the people to alter or abolish it and institute new government in such to insure their pursuit of happiness, liberty and safety.
